

Reference Images Of A Genuine 145 Aka Chopin Aka Classique

We can safely say today that the 145/Chopin/Classique has been faked to a sophisticated level. However there are some easy to identify features. After reading a thread posted recently, I decided to take and show some pics and highlight the salient points that fakers have not yet caught.

Note: MB has recently changed the nib imprints to [b]Au[/b], presumably to counter the fakery, but the nib shape remains same and plenty of old models are available in the used market. Feeder has also remained the same but might change in future. The length of the GP brass tube that screws into the section varies.

I sincerely hope this helps buyers.

Hari
